Can Video Analytics Turn Smart Cities Into Safe Cities?

In today's day and age, security has been thrust to the forefront of just about everything in current events. From insurgency to border control, it would seem that security plays a major part in our daily lives. Yet most people don't realize how intricate most security apparatuses are when...

Why IoT Needs AI

At one of my recent talks in New York about AI in the supply chain, one of the key questions that came up was "Are you talking about robots?" You see, AI has been romanticized into this abstract term that conjures images of walking robots doing your household chores while you just sit back...

Transportation Unions Roll Out Strategies To Move Infrastructure Package

Transportation labor leaders have laid out a strategy focused on shaping President Donald Trump's $1 trillion transportation infrastructure package and tackling challenges faced by transportation workers. Related Content: But the labor leaders, along with Democrats in Congress who support...
